Description

Extending to approximately 85.62 acres, the land comprises a remarkably diverse landscape, incorporating grazing land, established woodland and extensive areas of open moorland. Rising to almost 1,000 feet above sea level, the holding is distinguished by its striking rocky outcrops, historic disused gritstone quarries and an impressive east-to-west ridgeline, all of which combine to create a landscape of exceptional character and visual appeal. The elevated position affords magnificent uninterrupted views in every direction, making Carreg Dwfn a truly unique and rarely available upland holding.

The land is contained within a single parcel, accessed via a cattle grid and benefiting from established boundary fencing in part. A rich mosaic of native vegetation, grasses and mature tree species contributes to the holding's diverse landscape, whilst the varied topography incorporates areas of stone, rough grazing, rush pasture and woodland, creating both visual interest and practical versatility.

The property offers excellent potential for livestock grazing, particularly for those seeking additional land in support of the Sustainable Farming Scheme, whilst also presenting exciting opportunities for recreational pursuits, conservation management and environmental enhancement.
